Like every year, this report provides a dashboard of inadequate housing from updated figures, thanks to unprecedented exploitation of the 2013 Housing Survey INSEE highly expected, and monitoring housing policies of the past year.

It shows the alarming degradation of many indicators, whether the number of homeless people in fuel poverty in undue financial stress or forced accommodation among others.

THE ABBE PIERRE FOUNDATION RELEASES ANNUAL REPORT ON POVERTY AND INADEQUATE-HOUSING

According to the OFCE (Observatory Committee), for inadequately housed, overcrowding, humidity, noise increase each 40% risk for a person to report poor health. This percentage reaches 50% for those in fuel poverty.------

Finally, the shortcomings of housing and health policies feed each other and sacrifice the most vulnerable people, particularly those with psychiatric disorders. Today, 1/3 of people homeless have severe psychiatric disorders while 60 000 in specialized hospital beds were closed in recent decades, without alternatives to meet the needs.

"L'ABBE PIERRE"[?] BECOMES A FRENCH NATIONAL HEROE SINCE HIS CALL FOR COLDEST WINTER 1954

During the winter of 1954, which was one of the roughest in France, Abbé Pierre acquires notoriety by revolting and denouncing the winter the more deadly for the homeless. He thus launched on 1 February 1954 a memorable call on the airwaves of Radio Luxembourg (RTL future) 18, which became famous under the name "Call of Abbe Pierre."

With the money collected as a result of his call on the radio, he build emergency housing (including that of Noisy-le-Grand resembles a slum because it is inspired by the project of the American architect Martin Wagner buildings are shaped metallic cage half 20). These cities known to be temporary were transformed gradually in the best case, in housing projects. The battle of Abbé Pierre later allowed the adoption of a law prohibiting the eviction of tenants during winter.
